

Carolyn Angus-Hornbuckle JD, COO, Director of Public Health Policy and Programs, National Indian Health Board

Carolyn Angus-Hornbuckle serves as the NIHB Chief Operating Officer and Director of the NIHB Health Policy Center. In this dual role, she provides day-to day leadership for the work of the Policy Center, and support to the CEO in planning and implementation of all organization operations. Prior to current and past roles at NIHB, Carolyn served as a Senior Project Officer at the National Congress of American Indians. Ms. Hornbuckle was awarded her JD from the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University in 2009. While there, she completed an internship at the US Attorney's Office for the District of Arizona. After graduating, she worked as a law clerk for the Office of the General Counsel at the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community. Ms. Hornbuckle holds a law license in Arizona.